Morris Hillquit's big vote in New York—big as compared with the 32,000 votes Charles Edward Russell received four years ago—did not come as a surprise to his Socialist followers, for many seemed honestly to believe that, if he were not elected, he would at least run ahead of Mitchell. His appeal for votes on an anti-war platform had, moreover, been regarded as affording something of a test of public opinion. Yet it was clear at 9 o'clock that he was defeated. In none of the five boroughs did he receive a vote sufficient to give him first place. Only in The Bronx did he come near getting second place. There he appeared to be ahead of Mitchell. In the other boroughs he came third, falling behind Hyman and Mitchell, but ahead of Bennett.

Nevertheless, socialism, long heralded as being in the ascendancy in New York City, made good its promise of showing great gains over former years here. Incomplete returns showed the Socialist vote was at least four times greater than it was four years ago, with indications that the returns came in 1,440 election districts out of 2,000 the total vote for Hillquit was 89,000, and this figure at midnight had topped 123,000.

Headquarters concede defeat. Socialist headquarters conceded Hillquit's defeat early in the evening, but declined to concede that he would take third place, explaining that returns from the districts where the Socialist vote was heavy were coming in slowly.

S. John Block, Socialist candidate for Attorney General, charged that the naval reserve voters at Pelham Park had received ballots on which were the names of Mitchell and Hyman only. He said at Camp Upton the spaces for the Socialist candidates were left blank.

Whatever vote the Socialists got from their strongholds in the East Side was overcome by the heavy Hyman and Mitchell votes in other sections of Manhattan. But in The Bronx, a Socialist stronghold, 200 out of 287 election districts returned a vote in which Hillquit and Mitchell were almost tied, with Hillquit slightly in the lead.

Early returns did not indicate whether any Socialist candidates for the Assembly or other minor offices had been elected.

Members of the rank and file of the Socialist party last night regarded the result of the election as a Socialist victory. They so interpret it in insisting that ten Socialist Assemblymen, court Aldermen and two municipal court judges had been swept into office, and also in the unprecedentedly large vote for the party. All were overjoyed with the apparent victory for suffrage, and took keen satisfaction in Mayor Mitchell's defeat.

Under Solomon, the state secretary of the Socialist party, said: "This is one of the Socialist party's greatest victories. The results indicate that we will elect five Congressmen next year. Today's election has transformed the Socialist party into a major party."

Mr. Solomon claimed the election of Philip Saltra as judge in the Municipal Court in Brownsville and of Jacob Panken as judge of the same court in the lower East Side of Manhattan (the

Mrs. Hyman, wife of the next Mayor, said last night: "I am proud to be the wife of the next Mayor, because I know his sympathies are with the people and against the big interests which have exploited the people."

2d Judicial District). Moreover, he claimed for the Socialists the election of three Assemblymen in The Bronx, four in Manhattan and three in Brooklyn and of the same number of Aldermen.

According to the state secretary of the Socialists, E. Gittow was elected to the Assembly in the 3d Assembly District in The Bronx, S. Orr in the 4th and Charles Garfinkel in the 5th. Mr. Solomon also asserted that in Manhattan William Karlin had been elected to the Assembly in the 4th, Elmer Rosenberg in the 5th, Louis Waldman in the 8th and Carl Claessens in the 17th. In Brooklyn he claimed the election of William F. Feigenbaum in the 4th, the reelection of Joseph A. Whitehorn in the 14th (Williamsburg) and the reelection of A. J. Shripplaff in the 23d (Brownsville).

Burglar Kills Crying Child
RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 6.—Lucy Plummer, four-months-old daughter of J. Kemp Plummer, assistant state chemist, was found choked to death in her bed to-day, the victim of a burglar. The theory of the police is that the baby cried out while the intruder was in the room and, fearing it would arouse the household, he choked the child to death.

READING, Penn., Nov. 6.—William G. Leininger's hosiery mill, at Mohnton, this county, the largest in that borough, was destroyed by a mysterious fire early this morning. The loss is $50,000.

Offer of War Post to Mitchell Is Expected in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—An important war appointment from President Wilson awaits Mayor Mitchell if he will accept the post. This was the rumor freely circulated here to-night.

According to the stories, President Wilson has had his eyes on the New York fight for some time and had determined to make the offer if fortune went against the Mayor.

Before Mr. Mitchell was elected to the Mayoralty he served as Collector of the Port of New York, one of the choicest positions of patronage at the President's disposal.

Speculation did not mention the exact position to be offered to Mayor Mitchell, but in view of the Mayor's interest in military events the position may have to do with the extension of training camp activities.

Great Victory for the People, Declares Charles F. Murphy

Tammany Will Give City Efficient Administration, Says
Chief—Declares "Patriotic Issue Failed to Distract Attention of Voters"

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, whose power has probably been made secure by the Democratic landslide, last night made the following statement:

"The result of the election is a gratifying victory for the people over campaign deception and fraud. It demonstrates that they are quick to detect the difference between the true and the sham."

"The returns evidence the fact that unscrupulous newspapers no longer represent the opinion or sentiment of the people, that the latter do their own thinking, and refuse to be misled by misrepresentation or suppression of the real issue."

"The victory also shows that the injection of false issues failed in its design to hide the scandals of the Mitchell administration, that the voters understood the situation, and that they recognized the ability of the Democratic party to reform present abuses and to give the city an honest, economical and efficient administration."

"The Mitchell management of the city's affairs has also been repudiated by the people, because of its reactionary record. The Democratic ticket, in my judgment, has been accepted because the Democratic candidates and platform are progressive and in accordance with the world-wide progressive tendencies of the day."

"In an interview, last August, I said that all the wealth of the money-bund behind the Republican-Fusion forces—and they had nearly a million and a half to spend—could not buy this election."

"A lamentable feature of the campaign was the injection of a spurious issue by defaming some of our most loyal citizens in hysterical attempts to impugn their patriotism."

"It is regrettable that such eminent citizens as Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Root have been induced to lend their names to such a contemptible campaign conspiracy."

"But it must gladden the American heart now to note that the great, loyal American citizenship of New York City, the first city in the land, believe, patriotism was a false issue, designed to distract attention from the shortcomings of the present administration."

"After all is said and done, it is refreshing to all of us to know that in the candidacy of Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Hyman and Mr. Bennett, every voter had the pleasant opportunity of voting for a loyal American citizen."

"The assumption of a monopoly of Mitchell's fair-mindedness, that Mr. Mitchell's assumption of a monopoly of

Saks' Winter Overcoats for Men

Have all those elegancies of finish embodied in the highest-priced merchant-tailored garments, and exhibit an ease and grace of line found only in overcoats of Saks creating.

At $23 to $70

We have assembled a collection of overcoats wherein will be found more models, more patterns and more original colorings than either Saks or any other house ever presented to the men of Manhattan. Woolens are scarce—and high—but our big assortments show no big increase in price. We have no corner on the woolen market, but by selling direct to you minus middlemen's profits we are able to give you more in both tailoring and woolens than is possible in overcoats that are burdened with the rakeoff of a middleman.

If you are not quite decided as to what style of overcoat you want, just take a peep at these:

Shapely Coats

Two and 3 button, both single and double-breasted—following the figure as snugly as a comfortable fit will allow. Self or Velvet collars, and a finesse in the finish that would please a banker.

Great Coats—Usters

Roomy military models with full belts and large pockets; military-collared Raglans with buckled belt and muf pockets; Raglans in double-breasted effects, with yoke back and inverted pleat in the rear.

Conservative Models

Correct, but not conventional. Different, yet thoroughly in keeping with the requirements of the man of quieter taste. The assortment is great—and as individual as it is inclusive.

—and these are but a sprinkling from those models now awaiting your selection at Saks. We'll show you more overcoats in two minutes than most shops show all told. And no matter what the price may be—the tailoring will be there—and the Woolens, too!

President Arrives in Special
Train—Prepares Thanksgiving
Proclamation En Route

PRINCETON, Nov. 6.—A warm welcome was given to-day to President Wilson when he arrived from Washington by special train to vote in the state legislative election. A large crowd met the train and cheered the President and Mrs. Wilson, following them to the voting booth in a fire engine house, to which the President

Roosevelt Regrets Mitchell's Defeat

"I very greatly regret the defeat of Mayor Mitchell," said Colonel Theodore Roosevelt last night when, with the city vote two-thirds complete, he was told Judge Hyman had carried the city.

Beyond that the Colonel refused to comment. "I rejoice, however," said he, "in the splendid vote given Attorney General Lewis, and I also rejoice in the election of Schuyler Merritt to Congress from the Bridgeport district by a greater majority than the Republican candidate enjoyed in the Presidential year. Mr. Merritt, you will remember, ran on a straight war, straight preparedness platform."

Tribune Bulletins Draw Big Crowd Election Returns and the Movies Attract Throng in Franklin Square

Election returns, alternating with moving pictures, attracted an immense crowd to The Tribune bulletin board last night. "Standing room only" was the rule in Franklin Square, which reverberated to cheers and to the din of horns and the whole catalogue of noise-producing devices.

Each candidate had a generous contingent of supporters, who cheered as his picture was shown on the screen. The utmost good nature prevailed as between the different contingents, however, and few went home early what ever the fate of their favorite. Most of them remained to watch the motion pictures and the frantic joy of the Hyman rosters. There were, too, too many to cheer the losers and to set the victors dancing.

A detail of about sixty policemen found their job of maintaining order an easy one, and on the whole passed about as pleasant an evening as those viewing the returns. They kept the sidewalk along Nassau Street clear for pedestrians by forming a hollow square in front of the Tribune Building, and watched in vain for arguments which might breed violence.

The men in the crowd outnumbered the women, and boys and half grown youths outnumbered both, which accounted in some degree for the excitement with which all announcements were received and for the pandemonium of lungs and horns and whistles. Hundreds of mothers guided their children through the crowd and held up the smaller ones to look at the "funny pictures."

The most popular of the latter proved to be the satiric series entitled "Twenty Leagues Under the Sea," which evoked shrieks of laughter and had every one standing on tiptoe.

PUTTING THE ENGLISH IN CLOTHES FOR MEN

The conspicuous feature of English models is straight lines—almost destitute of padding in the shoulders and fronts, and more vertical than waisted in the back, they hang as straight as a rope from the gibbon.

But it takes hand-tailoring to do it properly—to round out the collar, to give convexity to the fronts, to shape an unwrinkled armhole, and to reconcile straight lines with a perfect fit.

Franklin Simon English Models in Men's Clothes are the pink and pattern of perfection as it is understood in Piccadilly.

They fit without appearing to try!

Thanksgiving Table Linens at McCutcheon's

Beautiful Linen lends an added charm to any table, but never more than when family and friends gather to celebrate the year's great festival of Thanksgiving.

For sixty-two years McCutcheon Table Linens have been famous for their beauty and durability. "Linen" at this store means, now as always, pure Linen, the most reliable in quality and exclusive in design. Notwithstanding the fact that present-day conditions have greatly increased the difficulty of securing supplies, our stocks will be found equal to the most exacting requirements.

The prices at which they are offered represent real economies for the reason that our purchases were made many months ago when prices were much lower than at present.

An early selection is earnestly advised. Stocks of many desirable patterns are limited and cannot be replaced.

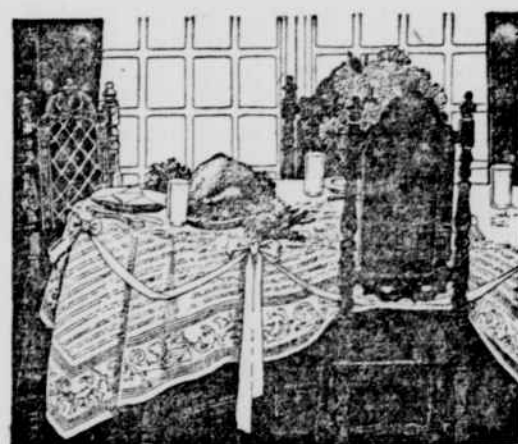

Table Cloths
2x2½ yds., up to 2x4 yds., $5.50 up to 30.00 each.
